

Einhorn, David

From: Peter W. Sachs, Esq. [psachs@iconn.net]
Sent: Friday, April 28, 2000 3:13 PM
To: deinhorn@andersonkill.com
Subject: RE: savinsucks.com

Dear Mr. Einhorn:

I received your April 27, 2000 fax. As I have told you previously, I will not relinquish ownership of my domain name, "savinsucks.com." Nor will I enter into any agreement regarding any possible use of the domain name. The fact that your client "does not like" my ownership of the name "savinsucks.com" is irrelevant. I have done nothing that is actionable and there remains nothing you or your client can do to prevent me from owning the name.

You and I disagree with respect to this particular area of the law. However, if you are so certain that your client will prevail, I encourage you to bring an action against me. I am confident that I will prevail on summary judgment. In fact, I am so confident that I have just registered the domain name "andersonkillsucks.com."

Please understand that I am not at all intimidated by you, your firm or your client. I will not "give in" in order to avoid potential legal fees. If your client plans to bring suit then please do so. In turn, I will seek all remedies available to me under 15 USC 1116(d)(11). Otherwise, please stop wasting my time and your client's money.

Sincerely,

Peter Sachs

- and the geek shall inherit the earth

Peter Wm. Sachs, Esq.
President - ICONN, LLC
tel. (203) 821-2575

psachs@iconn.net
www.iconn.net
fax:(203) 821-2574

(c)1999 Peter Wm. Sachs, Esq. All Rights Reserved. No part of this message may be copied, reproduced, posted, used, distributed or redistributed in any form or for any purpose other than as a reply to the author without the express written permission of the author. This email message is not offered as and does not constitute legal advice. I do not seek to represent you. The views and opinions expressed herein are my personal views and opinions.
